"DEDICATED MEMORIES"

A great missionary, has passed on, to await our coming, in that great beyond, she toiled and suffered until her day was o'er, she preached glad tidings unto the poor; she always stood in the Savior's will, and would hear him whisper, "Peace Be Still."

She was patient, loving, kind and good, yet many times she was misunderstood, as she traveled here, and traveled there, she kept within her heart a prayer, that God would keep, though friends forsake, and lead on, to that perfect day.

Many hidden snares, were often set, to entangle her in the enemy's net, but she had no fear of friend nor foe, for God had commanded her to go, she taught the Gospel, in power, too and stood quite boldly upon the truth.

She was a pattern to all mankind, as she helped the poor, the lame, the blind; with out-stretched hands, so generous, and gay, to bless a tired traveler, on his way. Yes she held a light for men of every age, for she truly was a leader, a teacher, a sage.

Missionary I. M. Moody was this great leader's name, who rose in this world to honor and fame. When she reached the age of eighty-one, God called to her, your race is run, tired and weary, she closed her eyes to rest, and went to join the saved and blest.
